In remarks applicant argues,

- I. Java type that can access not only Java data but also XML data from within Java.
- II. XML type in the present invention can access XML data without compiling it to Java objects.

In response to applicant argument,

- I. It was noted that cited reference fairly suggests the Java type that can access not only Java data but also XML data from within Java (summary of the invention, figure 2, system and method for interaction and access to shared content among clients and services within a distributed computing environment. A distributed computing environment may rely on "spaces" or object repositories to provide a rendezvous mechanism or catalyst for the interaction between clients and services. Service providers may advertise services in a space.

Art Unit: 2191

Clients may find the advertisements in a space and use the information from an advertisement to access a service using an XML (eXtensible Markup Language) messaging mechanism of the distributed computing environment. Many spaces may exist, each containing XML advertisements that describe services or content. Thus, a space may be a repository of XML advertisements of services and/or XML data, which may be raw data or advertisements for data, such as results). Therefore, examiner interprets that accessing is allowed from XML via message mechanism in distributed environment where object are stored regardless Java type or XML data. Thus, limitations are met by the reference.

II. It was also noted that reference also suggest that XML type in the present invention can access XML data without compiling it to Java objects (column 77, lines 15-34, FIG. 35a illustrates one embodiment where, when sending Java object 1510, the JVM XML compiler/decompiler API 1530 is called by the client. The client 1510 passes Java object 1510 to the API 1530, which compiles the object to produce its XML representation, stores the XML representation in XML data stream 1514, and outputs XML data stream 1514. XML data stream 1514 may then be passed to gate 1504 by the client. Gate 1504 may then package the XML data stream 1514 in an X message 1516 and send message 1516 to service 1502. Upon receiving XML message 1524 from service 1502, gate 1522 may extract XML data stream 1522 from message 1524 and pass data stream 1522 to client 1500. Client 1500 may then call the JVM XML compiler/decompiler API 1530, passing API 1530 the XML data stream 1522. The API 1530 may then decompile the XML data stream 1522 to produce Java object 1520 and other objects in its object graph, returning the objects to client 1500). Thus, examiner interprets that XML type can be access with or without compilation. Therefore, limitations are met by the reference.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
